COMMUNITY RESPONSE TO COVID-19

HEALTH INNOVATION COMMUNITY PARTNERSHIP

COVID-19 EQUITY CONVERSATION

HICP is a health equity table that allows us to address often-difficult community topics that would otherwise be addressed by those not from the Boyle Heights and East side communities but rather by institutions and systems.

One of the goals of our time together is to work on difficult topics with disparate outcomes. COVID-19 has exactly highlighted the inequities in health and income among other challenges in our community.

Today, we want to take some time to discuss some of those inequities. We want to know if there is role HICP can play in continuing to support the community to address those needs.

WHAT CAN WE DO TO SUPPORT OUR COMMUNITY IN RESPONDING TO COVID-19?

- Continue to provide accurate information, education and PPE?
- Address the exacerbated number of Latinos and Latina women infected by COVID-19?
- Can we do more to address the housing and food security crisis? What are we doing well?

- 18 to 29	199631

HOW CAN HICP PARTNERS HELP ADDRESS EQUITY CONCERNS?

- Can we do more to community needs among HICP partners?
- Can we ask SD 1 for something we have seen works in other areas?
- Are there topics we can prepare for presentation for future HICP meetings?

Court closure expected to mean trouble for at-risk youths

APRIL 21, 2013

Marcus Bell knows how important Los Angeles County courts are for at-risk youths.

Bell, a gang intervention and prevention worker in South Los Angeles, has worked hard with young people, trying to get them not to run from police. He has worked to get them to deal with their legal issues responsibly instead of avoiding court appearances so they don't end up with warrants issued against them at a young age.

“I am interested in developing a program that would be run by formerly incarcerated people (...) This center would allow people to access all different services at one place and one time.”

CONGRESSWOMAN KAREN BASS
Head of the Congressional Black Caucus

“This is an innovative one-stop shop where people can get help to find a job, go back to school, get connected to much-needed housing, get their record cleared, and receive healthcare, therapy, and other services crucial to turning someone’s life around - the essential ingredients to giving them a second chance.”

By Jill Cowan

Aug. 15, 2019

The long fight over the future of incarceration in Los Angeles reached a crucial point this week. Damian Dovarganes/Associated Press

“On February 12, 2019, [The Board of Supervisors] commissioned the Office of the CEO to create a public-private County Work Group on Alternatives to Incarceration (ATI), charged with developing a “road map, with an action-oriented framework and implementation plan, to scale alternatives to incarceration and diversion so care and services are provided first, and jail is a last resort.”

Planning assistance to help jurisdictions implement and adopt Housing Sustainability Districts, Workforce Housing Opportunity Zones, and Housing Supportive Tax Increment Financing Districts

HICP Endorsement

Examples include:

- Planning assistance to help jurisdictions implement AB 73, through the use of incentives to create housing on infill sites near public transportation, including fair housing analysis, identifying potential areas for affordable housing, and developing equity-based housing policies and programs.
- Planning assistance to help jurisdictions implement SB 540, through the use of streamlining the housing approval process by having cities identify Workforce Housing Opportunity Zones and completing up-front planning focused on employment and affordable housing in areas close to jobs, transit, and result in reduced VMT.
- Planning assistance to help jurisdictions implement tax increment financing districts that will result in accelerating housing production, through the development of infrastructure improvements to support infill housing and transit-oriented mixed-use development.
